CampusDocs Document Management Solution selected by Harvard Law School

CampusDocs to support the law school's student financial services office with web-based, hosted document management solution

HONOLULU, HAWAII – (February 7, 2008) CampusDocs, Inc., a leading web-based document management company, announced that Harvard Law School's Student Financial Services Office, Cambridge, MA, has selected CampusDocs, to support its efforts to streamline and automate the management of its financial aid documents.

CampusDocs will work closely with Harvard Law School's Student Financial Services Office to configure its web-based, hosted solution to capture and manage Harvard Law School's financial aid documents. Harvard Law School's Student Financial Services Office will also take advantage of CampusDocs email and fax integration capabilities to eliminate the need to print and file large volumes of e-mails and faxes. CampusDocs will also utilize its integration toolset to link CampusDocs document management system with Harvard Law School's financial aid system, PowerFAIDS and other in-house information systems to automate information sharing and minimize data re-keying. This project is part of a broader department initiative of utilizing the latest in information technology to increase productivity and responsiveness.

"CampusDocs unique on-demand offering brings a powerful, yet affordable alternative to expensive, resource intensive in-house software" says Kevin Awaya, CampusDocs President, "We are excited about the opportunity to work with one of America's premiere higher education institutions."
