

CampusDocs To Attend 2009 NACAC National Conference

65th National Conference takes place September 24-26 in Baltimore

HONOLULU, HAWAII - (August 28, 2009) CampusDocs, Inc., a leading provider of hosted document management solutions for higher education, announced today that it will attend the upcoming 2009 National Association for College Admission Counseling (NACAC) National Conference. The conference will be held in Baltimore, Maryland beginning September 24th and continuing through September 26th, 2009. CampusDocs will be exhibiting at booth 1123.

CampusDocs provides colleges and universities nationwide with web-based, hosted document management services specifically designed for higher education. The company's browser-based software platform significantly reduces the time and expense of dealing with massive volumes of paper documents associated with admissions, registration, financial aid, and student records.

"CampusDocs helps clients process and archive documents and files more efficiently; which ultimately has a positive impact on an organization's bottom line. The NACAC National Conference gives us an opportunity to share what we've learned about successful document streamlining, and to in turn learn from our knowledgeable colleagues about their experiences," said Kevin Awaya, President, CampusDocs. "We are proud to be participating in our fourth NACAC this year and look forward to compelling discussions with the conference attendees."

The NACAC National Conference presents opportunities to network and collaborate with peers, forge valuable relationships and partnerships, and participate in professional discussions. For additional information about the event please visit:
